THAT DISCERNING DOG.

LONDON, June 20.—The following account of the attack upon Prince Gortschakoff by Prince Bismarck's dog has been received here: Since the attempt upon the Emperor's life by Nobeling the nervousness under which Bismarck has long been suffering has violently increased. The Prince when thus suffering controls his temper with difficulty. When contradicted by the obstinate refusals of his interlocutor to be convinced by his arguments or to yield to his suggestions his voice rises and he stamps his feet. Something of this kind occurred during the interview with Prince Gortschakoff, and the dog mistaking the distemper of his master for anger, sprung suddenly at the throat of the Russian diplomatist. Happily, Bismarck was as quick as the dog, and had seized and thrown him aside before he had fastened his teeth in the person of his foe. Among some classes in Berlin this unpleasant incident is spoken of as an omen. The dog's instinct did not deceive him. They say Gortschakoff is plotting mischief against the chancellor and the dog

Indianapolis, June 20.-The origin of the trouble at the Coal Creek mines was through a strike in March, 1877, and was occasioned by the mining firm of Phelps & Co. and other parties owning mines in the vicinity were principally Welsh, English, Irish and ago, was committed to the Reform Farm Swedish Union miners. The employes rethis morning. Swedish Union miners. The employes re-fused to accept the reduction, and no compromise being effected they struck.

Phelps & Co. immediately employed a lot of negroes to take the places of the striking miners, which caused a howl to go up from the latter. Since that time trouble has oc curred frequently between the whites and blacks, and some weeks ago it culminated in the murder of Phil. Cozzins, a colored miner, and the wounding of several of his companions. The parties who did the kill-ing were members of the Wabash Guards, a recently formed militia company, composed largely of miners. These members got their arms and made this raid unauthorized by their officers. Several arrests were made and all were acquitted, principally on the testimony of Frank Kelly, an ex-miner. Several who were known to have taken a part in the shooting were dropped from membership. Quiet prevailed for some time, the negroes in the meantime receiving a supply of Springfield rifles from Chicago. present troubles originated Saturday last by killing the witness mentioned. came upon a party of colored miners who were engaged in a game of cards, drew a navy revolver and shot twice at one of the navy revolver and shot twice at one of the party named Tom Mills, one shot taking effect in the abdomen and proving fatal the next day. He continued firing at the party, wounding more. The negroes having guns near at hand got them and pursued guns near at hand got them and pursued Kelly, who received a slight wound. Kelly took refuge in the house of Chas. Habber A white miner, Wm. Grissdale, who was in company with Kelly, was also pursued, and took shelter in the same house. The firing then ceased, the colored miners holding Kelly prisoner till Sheriff Potts arrived, who proceeded to arrest the entire party of negroes, Kelly taking his liberty. The Deputy Sheriff had the assistance of the dropped members of the militia company in making the arrests and marched them to Covington. The Wabash Guards were brought on the scene, and visited Pardee's shaft and several negro quarters, seizing all guns to be found on the various premises, nd patrolling the streets of Stringtown during the night.

Mills' death occurring Sunday after-noon, Kelly was arrested by Col. James McNamara and committed on the charge of murder. His examination came up yesterday morning, and the excitement was raised to a frightful pitch. Officers of justice, feeling unable to preserve the peace with the means at hand, a request was sent to Gov. Williams for aid, which was complied with by sending the Indianapolis Light Infantry by a special train at 2 p. m.

GENEVA, N. Y., June 20.—The single scull race between Chas. Courtney, of Union Springs, and J. H. Dempsey, of Geneva, for $500 and the championship of the United States, took place yesterday afternoon. The distance was three miles. Courtney made a spurt and took the lead at once. In attempting to turn the mile and a half stake he was thrown in the water by a wire or something supposed to have been treacherously fastened to his turning stake. Before turning Courtney was four or five lengths ahead, and was taking his time and calling to Dempsey, "Come on." Demp-sey rowed over the course. The judges refused to decide, and the race will probably be rowed over again to-day.
